5 What do you do in your spare time? Please include specific details in your statement.

In my spare time, I have a variety of interests and activities that keep me engaged and relaxed. I enjoy reading books, especially fiction and non-fiction on topics like psychology and science, which expand my knowledge and stimulate my imagination.

I'm also an avid hiker and outdoor enthusiast. Exploring nature, hiking in the mountains, and camping are activities I find both physically invigorating and mentally rejuvenating.

Furthermore, I dedicate time to my creative hobbies, such as painting and playing a musical instrument. These pursuits provide an outlet for self-expression and allow me to unwind.

Lastly, I am a firm believer in maintaining a healthy lifestyle, so I allocate time for exercise, yoga, and meditation to stay physically and mentally fit.

Overall, my spare time activities are a blend of intellectual stimulation, outdoor adventures, and creative outlets that contribute to a well-rounded and fulfilling life.

6 Some people think that it's necessary to prohibit people from using phone calls in some places. Others believe that it's inconvenient if phone calls are forbidden in some places. Which opinion do you prefer? Explain why. Your statement should include specific examples and details.

I believe it's necessary to prohibit people from using phone calls in certain places, particularly in places where silence and concentration are essential, such as libraries, theaters, and classrooms. This prohibition ensures that individuals can engage in activities without disruption. For instance, in a library, people go to study or read in a quiet environment, and phone calls can disrupt this purpose. In a theater, phone calls can be highly disruptive to both performers and fellow audience members. Similarly, in a classroom, phone calls can disrupt the learning process.

By restricting phone calls in these places, we maintain a respectful and considerate atmosphere for everyone. However, it's crucial to strike a balance by allowing designated areas for phone use to accommodate those who need to make calls urgently.

7 Describe a celebration or moment which has made a deep impression on you. Please explain the impression and include specific examples and details in your explanation.

One celebration that left a profound impression on me was my high school graduation ceremony. The impression was a mix of nostalgia, pride, and anticipation for the future.

The ceremony was held in a grand auditorium, and the atmosphere was charged with excitement. As we walked across the stage to receive our diplomas, I couldn't help but reflect on the years of hard work, challenges, and growth that had led to that moment. It was a culmination of a significant chapter in my life.

The sight of proud parents and teachers applauding our achievements added to the emotion of the event. It made me appreciate the support and guidance I had received throughout my academic journey.

This celebration marked the transition from adolescence to adulthood, and the memory of that day continues to inspire me to pursue my goals with determination and resilience.

11 Describe a place that you like best in your city. Please state why you like it with specific examples and details.

One of my favorite places in my city is a serene botanical garden named "Green Haven." What I love most about it is the tranquil atmosphere and the opportunity to connect with nature in the midst of a bustling city.

Green Haven boasts a diverse collection of plants, flowers, and trees from all over the world. Walking through its well-maintained pathways, I can escape the urban noise and immerse myself in a world of greenery and vibrant colors. There's a Japanese Zen garden with koi ponds, a butterfly garden, and a beautiful rose garden that bloom in various seasons.

I often visit Green Haven to unwind, read a book, or simply enjoy a peaceful stroll. It's a place of beauty, relaxation, and inspiration right in the heart of the city.

12 When you are together with your friends, which place would you like to go? Explain why.

When I'm with my friends, one of our favorite places to go is a cozy coffee shop called "Bean & Brew." We are drawn to this place because it offers a perfect blend of comfort, ambiance, and delicious coffee.

Bean & Brew has comfortable seating, soft lighting, and a welcoming atmosphere. It's an ideal spot for conversations and catching up with friends. The aroma of freshly brewed coffee fills the air, creating a warm and inviting environment.

We often spend hours there, chatting about everything from life and dreams to the latest movies and books. It's a place where we can relax, sip our favorite brews, and enjoy each other's company without distractions.

13 Do you like to eat at home or at the restaurant? Which do you prefer and explain the reason.

I prefer eating at home over dining at restaurants. While restaurants offer convenience and a variety of cuisines, home-cooked meals have their unique appeal.

Firstly, eating at home allows me to control the ingredients and portions, ensuring that I consume healthier options. It also gives me the opportunity to experiment with recipes and explore my culinary skills.

Secondly, dining at home fosters a sense of togetherness and family bonding. Sharing meals with loved ones promotes communication and connection.

Lastly, eating at home is more cost-effective. Dining out can be expensive, while cooking at home is budget-friendly and allows me to save money for other priorities.

In summary, I prefer eating at home for its health benefits, the sense of connection it brings, and its cost-effectiveness.

15 Some students prefer to choose universities located in big cities. Others would like to study in universities located in small towns. Please state your opinion and explain why.

I prefer studying at universities located in big cities rather than in small towns. In my opinion, the advantages of studying in a big city outweigh those of a small town.

Big cities offer a diverse range of cultural experiences and opportunities. They are often home to museums, theaters, galleries, and a vibrant nightlife. These cultural amenities can enhance a student's overall educational experience, providing exposure to different perspectives and creative outlets.

Moreover, big cities tend to have more extensive job markets and internship opportunities, allowing students to gain practical experience in their chosen fields. Networking opportunities are abundant, as there are more businesses and professionals to connect with.

While small towns may offer a quieter and more focused atmosphere, big cities provide a dynamic and stimulating environment that encourages exploration and personal growth.

17 Some students tend to live alone, while others may want to share their rooms with their roommates. Which way of living do you think is better for students and why?

Living with roommates is, in my opinion, a better choice for students, especially in their early years of college. It offers several advantages, including social support, cost-sharing, and the opportunity to develop essential life skills.

Roommates provide companionship and a sense of belonging in an unfamiliar environment. They can offer emotional support, help with academic challenges, and facilitate social interactions. Living alone, on the other hand, can lead to isolation and loneliness.

Cost-sharing is another significant benefit. Shared expenses for rent, utilities, and groceries can make living in a city more affordable for students on limited budgets.

Lastly, living with roommates encourages the development of crucial life skills like communication, conflict resolution, and cooperation. These skills are valuable not only in college but also in future endeavors.

Overall, shared living arrangements with roommates offer social, financial, and personal growth advantages that make it a better choice for students.

18 When you are together with your friends, which place do you prefer to eat, the restaurant, café or at home? Use specific examples to support your statement.

When I'm with my friends, I prefer to eat at home. While restaurants and cafes offer convenience and ambiance, home-cooked meals have their unique appeal.

Eating at home allows us to bond over preparing and sharing a meal. We can take turns cooking, trying out new recipes, and sharing our culinary creations. It promotes a sense of togetherness and teamwork.

Additionally, dining at home is cost-effective. It's more budget-friendly than eating out, allowing us to enjoy quality time without the financial burden.

One memorable example is a recent gathering where we cooked a diverse range of dishes from various cultures, expanding our culinary horizons. It was a delightful experience that combined friendship, learning, and delicious food.

19 Some believe that computer have improved our lives while others think computers have caused a variety of problems. Which do you prefer? Please give your opinion and include specific examples and details.

I believe that computers have improved our lives significantly. They have revolutionized communication, research, and productivity. For instance, the internet connects people worldwide, making information accessible in seconds. Online education has expanded learning opportunities, and remote work has increased flexibility in employment.

Moreover, computers have transformed healthcare with advanced diagnostics and treatments. They have streamlined industries, from manufacturing to finance, enhancing efficiency.

While there are concerns about privacy and digital addiction, proper use and regulations can mitigate these issues. Computers, when used responsibly, have brought immense benefits to society, improving our quality of life and the way we work and interact.

21 Some people prefer to work in the offices. Others would like to take the work to home. Which do you prefer and explain why.

I prefer working in an office rather than at home. Office environments offer structure, social interaction, and separation between work and personal life.

In an office, there is a clear delineation between work hours and personal time, reducing the risk of burnout. Interaction with colleagues fosters collaboration, brainstorming, and a sense of belonging. For instance, I find that working alongside my peers in the office encourages creativity and problem-solving.

Moreover, offices often provide resources, such as equipment and technology, that may not be available at home. This can enhance productivity and efficiency.

While remote work has advantages, including flexibility, I believe the office environment provides a more structured and collaborative setting that is conducive to productivity and professional growth.

22 Who is the person you admire the most? Please give specific details and examples in your explanation.

The person I admire the most is my grandmother, YueQing, who lived through the Chinese Civil War. Her wisdom allowed our family to find refuge and establish roots in Thailand during the war. Her remarkable business acumen transformed our family into the first major distributor for consumer products, hotel operators, cinema owners, and pawnshop proprietors in Thailand.

Her entrepreneurial mindset, resilience, and strong execution skills provided my mother's generation with a life of privilege, with maids at their service, ample learning opportunities, and the chance to broaden their horizons through international travel.

Beyond her practical talents, her wide-ranging interests, such as her love for playing mahjong, endeared her to many, helping elevate our family's social status and forging lifelong friendships with other families.

23 Some people believe that higher education is for all students. Other people believe that higher education is only suitable for certain students. Which opinion do you think is better and why?

I believe that higher education should be accessible to all students. Education is a fundamental right and providing opportunities for higher learning benefits individuals and society as a whole.

Higher education equips students with critical thinking skills, knowledge, and expertise that contribute to personal growth and societal progress. Restricting it to only certain students could perpetuate inequalities and limit human potential.

Scholarships, financial aid, and support systems can make higher education more inclusive. This approach ensures that individuals from all backgrounds have the chance to pursue their academic and career aspirations, leading to a more equitable and prosperous society.

In conclusion, higher education should be available to all students, regardless of their socioeconomic background, as it fosters personal development and social advancement.

24 Do you agree or disagree with the following statement? Please give specific reasons for your opinion. Parents should restrict the TV programs that are watched by their kids instead of letting the kids watch TV programs freely.

I agree with the statement that parents should restrict the TV programs their children watch rather than allowing them to watch freely. It is essential for parents to monitor and guide their children's television choices for several reasons. Firstly, many TV programs contain content that may not be suitable for young minds, such as violence or inappropriate themes. Secondly, excessive TV consumption can lead to negative effects on children's academic performance and physical health, like obesity.

25 Describe the most efficient transportation in your country. Please state your reason and include specific examples and details in your explanation.

The Taipei Metro, or Taipei MRT, is the most efficient transportation in my country. It covers the city extensively, reducing traffic congestion and providing a swift, clean, and comfortable commute. During rush hours, it offers a hassle-free alternative to driving. With modern amenities, such as air conditioning and accessibility features, it sets a global standard for public transportation, contributing to sustainable urban mobility in Taipei.

26 Describe one of the most important inventions in recent 100 years. Explain why it is so important. Your explanation should include specific examples and details.

One of the most important inventions in the last 100 years is the internet. The internet has revolutionized the way we communicate, access information, conduct business, and learn. It has connected people globally, enabling instant communication and collaboration across borders. For instance, it has facilitated online education, allowing students to access courses and resources from prestigious universities worldwide. Moreover, the internet has transformed industries such as e-commerce, enabling convenient online shopping and creating countless job opportunities. Its impact on modern society is undeniable, making it a pivotal invention of the 20th century.

27 Some believe that in comparison with those never attended college, people attended college will be more successful in career. Do you agree or disagree with this statement? Please give specific reasons for your opinion.

I agree with the belief that attending college can lead to greater success in one's career compared to those who never attended college. College education provides individuals with valuable knowledge, skills, and credentials that enhance their employability and earning potential. Many professions and industries require a college degree as a minimum qualification. For instance, fields like medicine, engineering, and law demand specialized education that can only be obtained through higher education.

28 Describe the characteristics of friends, use specific examples to support your statement.

Friends exhibit various characteristics that contribute to strong relationships. Trustworthiness is paramount, as friends should be reliable and honest in their interactions. For example, a true friend can be counted on in times of need. Additionally, mutual respect and understanding are vital for resolving conflicts and maintaining a healthy friendship. Friends who actively listen and empathize with each other create a supportive environment. Lastly, shared interests and common values can strengthen bonds, as they provide opportunities for enjoyable activities and meaningful conversations.

29 Someone suggests school to cut the Recycling. Do you agree or disagree with this suggestion, explain why.

I disagree with the suggestion to cut recycling programs in schools. Recycling education plays a crucial role in raising environmental awareness and promoting sustainable practices. Teaching students about recycling instills a sense of responsibility toward the planet and future generations. Additionally, recycling programs offer valuable lessons in resource conservation and waste reduction. Schools should continue to prioritize these programs to help shape environmentally conscious citizens who actively contribute to a cleaner and more sustainable world.

30 To be a leader or a follower, which do you prefer? Please give your opinion with specific examples and details.

I prefer to be a leader. Being in a leadership role allows me to drive positive change, make important decisions, and inspire others. For instance, in a group project, I often take the lead because I can set goals, delegate tasks, and motivate the team. Leadership also fosters personal growth as it requires problem-solving and communication skills.

31 Which one do you think is better to help do research, internet or academic books? Explain why.

Both the internet and academic books have their merits for research, but I lean towards the internet for its convenience and vast resources. The internet provides instant access to a wide range of information, research papers, and databases, which saves time. However, for in-depth and credible research, academic books still hold value as they undergo rigorous peer review.

32 Some believe that TV, newspaper and radio have more influence on individuals than their relatives and friends, while others believe not. Which statement do you prefer? Please give your opinion with specific examples and details.

I believe that TV, newspaper, and radio have a significant influence on individuals due to their mass reach and ability to shape public opinion. For example, news coverage on critical issues can sway public sentiment and policy decisions.

34 Would you like to take a long vacation or several short vacations in a year? Explain why.

I would prefer several short vacations in a year. This approach allows for more frequent relaxation and rejuvenation, breaking the routine without the need for extensive planning or extended time off work.

35 What do you think are the characteristics of a good parent?

Characteristics of a good parent include love, patience, communication, and the ability to provide guidance and support. Good parents prioritize their children's well-being, listen to their needs, and foster a nurturing environment for growth and development.

36 Do you prefer to study alone on work assignment from class or to study in groups

I prefer a combination of both solo and group study. When I need to grasp complex concepts or focus on individual tasks, I study alone as it allows me to maintain concentration. On the other hand, group study has its advantages for collaborative learning, sharing perspectives, and discussing challenging topics. It also provides motivation and a sense of community. For instance, during group study sessions, I've gained insights from peers and clarified doubts effectively. So, the choice depends on the nature of the assignment and the learning objectives.

37 Everyone has a goal to fulfill. What's your goal and explain why you want to fulfill this goal. Please include specific examples and details in your explanation.

My primary goal is to become an ASIC (Application-Specific Integrated Circuit) design engineer. I have a deep fascination with semiconductor technology and its applications in various electronic devices. By pursuing a career in ASIC design, I aim to contribute to the development of cutting-edge hardware that powers everything from smartphones to autonomous vehicles. This goal is driven by my passion for innovation and my desire to work on complex engineering challenges.

I have taken numerous courses and engaged in hands-on projects related to digital circuit design and semiconductor fabrication, solidifying my commitment to this field. I believe that becoming an ASIC design engineer will allow me to push the boundaries of technology and make a meaningful impact on the electronics industry.

38 Describe one of your challenging experiences. Explain why it is challenging and how you conquered this challenge. Please include specific examples and details in your explanation.

One of my most challenging and rewarding experiences was organizing a fundraising event for local stray animals. This endeavor was particularly demanding because it required coordinating various aspects, including logistics, promotion, and community engagement. Additionally, I had to overcome the obstacle of limited resources and a tight timeframe.

The challenge was twofold: raising awareness about the plight of stray animals and gathering funds to support their well-being. I tackled this by leveraging social media, partnering with local businesses, and collaborating with animal shelters. It was an uphill battle, but seeing the community come together, support our cause, and witness the positive impact we had on the lives of these animals was immensely gratifying.

This experience taught me valuable skills in project management, teamwork, and perseverance. It reinforced my belief in the power of collective effort to bring about positive change in society.

39 Some students would choose to study a subject because it brings plenty of job opportunities. Instead, others just choose subject which really interests them, Which opinion do you agree with? Explain why.

I believe in studying a subject that genuinely interests me. While job opportunities are essential, pursuing a subject I'm passionate about ensures long-term motivation and satisfaction in my studies and future career. For instance, if I'm genuinely interested in a subject, I'm more likely to excel in it and find creative ways to apply my knowledge, making me a more valuable asset in the job market.

40 Which is your favorite type of movie: action, drama, or others? Please include specific details and examples in your explanation.

My favorite type of movie or TV show genre is drama, and one iconic American TV drama that I absolutely adore is 'Friends.' This beloved sitcom, set in New York City, revolves around the lives, friendships, and romantic escapades of six close-knit friends: Ross, Rachel, Monica, Chandler, Joey, and Phoebe.

What makes 'Friends' my favorite is its compelling blend of humor, relatable life situations, and heartfelt moments. The characters' quirks and distinctive personalities create a sense of familiarity that draws viewers in. Whether it's Ross's awkwardness, Chandler's sarcasm, or Joey's endearing naivety, each character adds a unique flavor to the show.

The show's ability to tackle serious themes such as love, friendship, career struggles, and personal growth within a comedic framework is truly impressive. It's not just about the laughter; it's about the emotional connections and life lessons that the characters and their experiences offer. 'Friends' has a timeless quality that continues to resonate with audiences worldwide, making it a classic in the world of TV drama.

41 Choose one of your favorite methods to relax and explain why it is your favorite. Please include specific details in your explanation.

One of my favorite methods to relax is through reading. Whether it's curling up with a captivating novel or delving into an intriguing non-fiction book, reading has a unique ability to transport me to different worlds and expand my horizons. What I love most about this pastime is the way it engages my imagination. As I immerse myself in a well-written book, I can visualize the characters, settings, and events vividly. It's a form of escapism that allows me to temporarily detach from the stresses of daily life. Additionally, reading provides an opportunity for self-improvement, as I can explore various topics and gain knowledge. The sheer versatility of reading makes it my go-to method for relaxation.

42 Is it important for students to attend class regularly or study by oneself? Explain why.

Regular class attendance is crucial for students. While self-study has its merits, attending classes offers several advantages. Firstly, it promotes a structured learning environment where students receive guidance from experienced educators. Teachers provide explanations, clarify doubts, and facilitate discussions, enhancing comprehension. Moreover, classroom interactions with peers foster collaborative learning and diverse perspectives. Students can ask questions, engage in debates, and work on group projects. Additionally, attendance instills discipline and time management skills, which are vital for future endeavors. Lastly, some courses involve hands-on experiences or practical demonstrations that are impossible to replicate through self-study. In sum, regular class attendance not only enriches academic understanding but also cultivates essential life skills.

46 Everyone has to leave home sometimes. What do you miss most when you are away from home? Please include specific examples and details in your explanation.

When I have to leave home, what I miss most is the warmth and familiarity of my family. It's not just the physical presence but the emotional connection and the feeling of belonging that I long for. I miss the comforting routine of family dinners, the sound of laughter echoing through the house, and the shared moments of joy and support. Even the small, everyday things like my mother's cooking, my father's advice, or my sibling's playful banter become precious when I'm away. These connections create a sense of security and happiness that can't be replicated elsewhere. While exploring new places and experiences is exciting, the love and togetherness I have at home are irreplaceable.

47 Some people believe that we should help those in an emergency. Others think that we should first make clear of the situation, then decide whether to assist or not. What's your opinion? Please include specific details in your explanation.

In my view, it's essential to help those in an emergency without delay. When someone faces a crisis, every moment counts, and swift assistance can be a matter of life or death. Clearing the situation beforehand can lead to unnecessary delays and could potentially worsen the outcome. Of course, assessing the situation is crucial, but it should not hinder immediate action. Once the person's safety is ensured, further investigation can follow. In emergency situations, I believe it's morally responsible to prioritize offering help and assistance. A real-life example of this is when someone is drowning; you don't wait to gather information; you act immediately to save a life.

48 Describe a special opportunity given to you. Why does this opportunity so special to you? Your explanation should include specific details and examples.

One of the most special opportunities I've had was the chance to participate in the 2007 "Jamboree" World Scout event held in London, UK. This experience was particularly meaningful because it brought together Scouts from all over the world, promoting cultural exchange, friendship, and understanding among diverse backgrounds. I had the opportunity to interact with Scouts from various countries, sharing stories, traditions, and values. We worked together on community service projects, learned about global issues, and celebrated our differences. This event broadened my horizons, instilled a deep sense of unity, and ignited my passion for international cooperation and understanding. It was a transformative experience that continues to shape my perspective on the world.

49 What kind of qualities should a good leader possess? Please state your opinion and give specific details and examples in your explanation.

A good leader should possess a variety of qualities, including strong communication skills, empathy, and the ability to inspire and motivate others. Effective communication is crucial for conveying a vision and ensuring that team members understand their roles. Empathy allows a leader to understand the needs and concerns of their team, fostering a positive and supportive work environment. Moreover, the ability to inspire and motivate encourages team members to work towards common goals with enthusiasm. A good leader should also be adaptable and open to feedback, continuously striving for personal and team improvement. Leading by example, being accountable, and making ethical decisions are equally important qualities that set the foundation for successful leadership.

50 Do you agree or disagree with the following statement? Please explain your opinion. People should always tell the truth.

I agree that people should generally tell the truth, as honesty forms the basis of trust and meaningful relationships. When we tell the truth, we build credibility and integrity, which are vital in personal and professional life. However, there may be exceptional cases where a person might need to withhold the truth temporarily to protect someone's feelings or well-being, like sparing someone unnecessary pain. Yet, such instances should be the exception rather than the rule. In most situations, honesty not only maintains trust but also facilitates problem-solving and conflict resolution. It promotes transparency, reduces misunderstandings, and fosters open communication, ultimately leading to healthier and more productive relationships.

51 Describe an object which is very important to you and explain why it is of special value to you. Please include specific details in your explanation.

The object of great importance to me is a vintage wristwatch that belonged to my grandfather. It's special because it carries deep sentimental value and connects me to cherished memories. My grandfather was a wise and kind-hearted man, and the watch symbolizes his legacy and the timeless lessons he imparted to me. Whenever I wear it, I'm reminded of his presence and the valuable life principles he instilled in me. The watch itself is a beautifully crafted timepiece, a testament to the craftsmanship of a bygone era. It serves as a daily reminder to cherish family, tradition, and the importance of passing down wisdom through generations.

52 Some people tend to judge a person on the basis of first observation. Some people believe it takes a long time to know a person well. Which approach to knowing people do you think is better and why?

I believe it's better to take the time to know a person well rather than making judgments based solely on first observations. First impressions can be deceiving, and people often present a curated version of themselves in initial encounters. By taking the time to build a deeper connection, we gain a more accurate understanding of someone's character, values, and motivations. This approach leads to more meaningful and lasting relationships. Additionally, it allows us to see the growth and change in individuals over time, as no one can be entirely defined by their initial presentation. In essence, patience and an open mind are key to truly knowing and appreciating the complexities of others.

55 What do you think the students should do in their vacations? Please include specific examples and details in your statement.

During their vacations, students should engage in a well-rounded mix of activities that promote personal growth, relaxation, and skill development. For example, they can explore new hobbies or interests, like learning a musical instrument, volunteering for a local charity, or taking up a sport. This not only enhances their talents but also fosters a sense of responsibility and community engagement. Additionally, students can use this time to travel and broaden their horizons by experiencing new cultures and cuisines, which can be both educational and enjoyable. Ultimately, a balance between leisure, self-improvement, and exploration is key to making the most of their vacations.

57 When communicating with your friends and families, you can rely on letters, email or telephone calls. Which method of communicating do you think is better and why?

When communicating with friends and family, I believe telephone calls are the better method. Unlike emails, which lack the personal touch of voice and real-time interaction, phone calls offer a more immediate and intimate connection. Hearing the tone and nuances in someone's voice allows for better understanding and empathy, especially when discussing sensitive or emotional topics. Phone calls also provide the opportunity for spontaneous conversations and the exchange of laughter or shared excitement, which can be challenging to convey through written communication. While emails have their advantages, nothing quite replaces the warmth and connection of a genuine conversation over the phone.

58 What is your best time in a year? Please state your reasons and include specific examples and details in your explanation.

my favorite time of the year is undoubtedly spring. The reasons are multifaceted. Firstly, the weather during spring is delightful, with moderate temperatures and colorful blossoms that bring nature to life. It's a perfect time for outdoor activities like picnics, hiking, and simply enjoying the beauty of the natural world. Secondly, spring symbolizes renewal and freshness, which can have a positive psychological impact. Lastly, spring often aligns with holidays and breaks, offering opportunities for travel and spending quality time with loved ones. All these factors make spring a season of joy, vitality, and rejuvenation.

59 One should live a relaxed life instead of always hurrying. Do you agree or disagree with the above statement? Why or why not? Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

I agree that one should strive for a balanced, relaxed life instead of constantly hurrying. An overly hectic lifestyle can lead to stress, burnout, and health issues. Taking time to relax and unwind is essential for mental and physical well-being. It allows individuals to recharge, reflect, and appreciate the present moment. Moreover, a relaxed approach to life often leads to better decision-making and enhanced creativity. While ambition and hard work are valuable, it's equally important to find moments of tranquility and balance in our fast-paced world.

61 When travelling, some people prefer to reach the destination directly. Some others prefer to stop and look around the scenery along the way. What kind of way of travelling do you think is better and why?

When traveling, I believe that taking the time to stop and explore the scenery along the way is the better approach. While reaching the destination is the ultimate goal, the journey itself can be a rich and rewarding experience. Stopping to appreciate scenic spots, engage with local culture, or sample regional cuisine can provide a deeper understanding of the places visited. It allows travelers to create lasting memories and connections. Moreover, it reduces the stress of rushing to reach the destination and offers opportunities for spontaneous adventures. Traveling should be about more than just reaching a point on the map; it should be a holistic exploration of the world.

62 When you choose to eat at the restaurant or café, what are the features that you care about most? Explain why.

When dining at a restaurant or café, I prioritize several key features. First and foremost, the quality of the food is paramount. Tasty, well-prepared dishes are essential for a satisfying dining experience. Secondly, I value the ambiance. A pleasant atmosphere with comfortable seating and suitable lighting enhances the overall enjoyment. Additionally, prompt and courteous service is crucial; nobody likes to wait excessively or deal with rude staff. Lastly, affordability plays a role. While I appreciate fine dining, I also like options that offer good value for the money. These features ensure that my dining experience is both enjoyable and memorable.

63 Some believe that a city should keep its old buildings. Others think some new buildings are needed to replace the old buildings. What's your opinion? Explain why.

I believe that striking a balance between preserving old buildings and introducing new ones is essential for a city's development. Old buildings often hold historical and architectural significance, contributing to a city's character. However, cities also need to evolve and adapt to modern needs. Therefore, selectively preserving old structures while allowing new, innovative designs can create a harmonious blend of tradition and progress. It maintains a city's cultural heritage while accommodating its changing population and functionality.

64 In case of problems, some prefer to get advice from family and friends. Others prefer to learn through personal experience. Which method is better and why?

When facing problems, seeking advice from family and friends is usually the wiser approach. They offer valuable insights and support based on their experiences, preventing us from making avoidable mistakes. Personal experiences can be valuable but are often more time-consuming and may result in unnecessary hardships. Consulting loved ones provides a quicker, more reliable solution while strengthening relationships.

65 Do you agree or disagree: Students should wear uniform in school? Please include specific details and examples in your opinion.

I agree with the idea that students should wear uniforms in school. Uniforms promote a sense of equality and belonging among students. When everyone wears the same attire, it eliminates socioeconomic differences and reduces peer pressure related to clothing choices. Uniforms also contribute to a more focused learning environment by removing distractions caused by trendy or inappropriate outfits. Moreover, they instill a sense of discipline and professionalism that prepares students for future endeavors where dress codes may be required. Overall, uniforms serve as a practical and effective means of creating a conducive and respectful atmosphere in educational institutions.

66 Some students prefer the internet-based teaching. Others prefer to study in traditional classrooms. Which method of studying do you prefer and why?

I prefer internet-based teaching due to its flexibility and convenience. Online learning allows students to access educational content from anywhere, anytime, making it ideal for those with busy schedules. It offers a variety of resources like videos, quizzes, and discussion forums, catering to diverse learning styles. Internet-based teaching reaches a broader audience, including remote learners. It promotes self-discipline and time management, essential skills in today's fast-paced world. While traditional classrooms provide face-to-face interaction, online platforms offer video conferencing and discussion boards for meaningful peer and teacher interactions, creating a comprehensive learning experience.

68 Some think the college education is very important. Others believe that college education is not of vital importance in one's life. What's your opinion and why?

I believe that college education is crucial in one's life. College provides not only academic knowledge but also essential life skills, personal growth, and expanded horizons. It fosters critical thinking, independence, and networking opportunities, all of which are invaluable for future success. While college isn't the sole path to success, it opens doors to a broader range of career options and higher earning potential. Furthermore, it contributes to personal development and societal progress by producing informed, well-rounded individuals who can make meaningful contributions to their communities and the world.

69 Describe a letter or poem or other piece of art that is important to you. Why was it so important to you? Please include specific examples and details in your statement.

One piece of art that holds immense importance for me is the poem "The Road Not Taken" by Robert Frost. This poem resonates with me because it reflects the choices and decisions we make in life. It reminds me that the path less traveled can lead to unique and fulfilling experiences. The poem's closing lines, "I took the one less traveled by, / And that has made all the difference," have inspired me to embrace opportunities that may seem unconventional but have the potential for personal growth. It encourages me to follow my instincts and not be afraid to deviate from the norm.

70 Which place do you like to live, the forest, desert, or plain? Use specific reason to explain your opinion.

If given the choice, I would prefer to live in a forest. The lush green surroundings, tranquility, and connection with nature appeal to me. The forest offers a sense of peace and an opportunity to live in harmony with the environment.

71 Describe an experience when you asked help from others. How did they help you?

Once, I asked for help from a friend when preparing for a challenging exam. They patiently explained complex concepts, shared study resources, and provided emotional support. Their guidance and encouragement boosted my confidence, and I performed exceptionally well in the exam.

72 If you have a chance to choose your job, would you like to choose a job with high salary or that can get personal satisfaction? Why?

When it comes to choosing a job, I would prioritize personal satisfaction over a high salary. While financial stability is important, job satisfaction ensures a fulfilling and meaningful career. A satisfying job contributes to overall happiness, personal growth, and a sense of purpose.

73 Some believe that the students should do some part-time jobs or summer interns to determine their future career. Do you agree or disagree with the opinion and why?

I agree with the idea that students should engage in part-time jobs or summer internships to explore potential career paths. Practical experience helps students gain insights into various industries, build valuable skills, and make informed decisions about their future careers.

74 Describe some kind of skill that you'd like to learn most. Why? Please include specific examples and details in your explanation.

75 Some believe that the students should take a one-year break before attending college. Do you agree or disagree with the opinion and why?

I'm enthusiastic about acquiring expertise in GPU architecture and design. This skill is crucial for my career, particularly for the role of an ASIC design engineer at NVIDIA. Proficiency in GPU architecture allows me to contribute to cutting-edge graphics cards and parallel processing technologies. It aligns with my passion for innovation in technology and offers exciting opportunities in areas like gaming, artificial intelligence, and scientific computing. Mastering GPU architecture not only enhances my career prospects but also provides immense job satisfaction through engaging in groundbreaking projects at the forefront of computational advancements.

76 Describe some good news that made you happy and explain why. Please include specific examples and details in your explanation.

The good news that brought immense happiness was my acceptance into a prestigious high school with a full scholarship. This news was a culmination of years of hard work, dedication, and sacrifices. It not only relieved my family from the financial burden of tuition but also opened doors to exceptional educational opportunities. The scholarship boosted my self-esteem and validated my academic efforts. Moreover, it allowed me to choose my desired major, pursue research interests, and participate in extracurricular activities without constraints. This positive turn of events not only brought joy but also enhanced my confidence and optimism for the future.

77 Some people believe that first-year college students should live in a dorm building those homes only freshmen. Others may prefer the idea that first-year students must live together with students in 2nd, 3rd, or even 4th grade. Which opinion do you agree with? Explain why.

I believe that first-year college students should live in dorm buildings that house only freshmen. This arrangement fosters a supportive and inclusive environment for newcomers. Freshmen often face similar challenges, and by living together, they can form strong bonds, share experiences, and provide each other with emotional support during the crucial transition to college life. On the other hand, mixing students from different grade levels may lead to isolation and hinder the establishment of a close-knit community. Moreover, older students might not relate to the unique needs and concerns of freshmen. In dorms exclusively for first-year students, there can be targeted programs and resources to help them adapt, ultimately promoting a successful college experience.

78 Do you agree or disagree that students will learn more when they have discussions, why?

I strongly agree that students learn more when they engage in discussions. Discussions promote active participation, critical thinking, and a deeper understanding of the subject matter. When students have the opportunity to express their thoughts, ask questions, and engage in debates, they are more likely to internalize the material and retain knowledge. Additionally, discussions expose students to diverse perspectives and ideas, which can broaden their horizons and encourage them to think creatively. Collaborative learning environments, where discussions are central, are proven to be effective in enhancing comprehension and problem-solving skills. Therefore, I believe that discussions are a valuable and integral part of the learning process.

79 Do you agree or disagree the opinion "the most important lesson can't be learned in class"?

I agree with the opinion that the most important lessons cannot be learned in a classroom. While formal education imparts valuable knowledge and skills, there are essential life lessons that can only be acquired through real-world experiences. Lessons about resilience, empathy, adaptability, and perseverance often come from facing challenges, interacting with diverse people, and navigating through various situations outside the classroom. These experiences shape our character, values, and personal growth. While academic education provides a strong foundation, it is the combination of classroom learning and life experiences that truly prepares individuals to succeed in the complex and ever-changing world.

80 Should the university education be free? Why?

Whether university education should be free is a complex question with valid arguments on both sides. While free education can reduce financial barriers, promote accessibility, and create a more equitable society, it also raises concerns about sustainability, quality, and allocation of resources. Ideally, higher education should be affordable and accessible to all, but implementing completely free university education may not be feasible for all countries. A balanced approach, such as offering need-based scholarships or low-cost education, might strike the right balance between affordability and quality. Ultimately, the decision should be guided by a country's economic capacity and educational goals while striving for inclusivity and fairness in higher education.
